

WOMEN MUNITIONS WORKERS TO BE AIDED

A woman's health department for the special care of women engaged in the munitions industry of the country, as part of the women's division of the Industrial Section Service of the Ordnance Department, was announced by Miss Mary Van Kleeck, chief of the women's division today.

Dr. Kristine Mann, director of the Health Clinic for Industrial Women in New York city and lecturer on hygiene in Smith College, will head the new department.

Work of the new organization will be directed from Washington, and later District health officers, qualified women who have had special training for the work, will be appointed. They will not only look after industrial hygiene, but will administer sociologic questions, and look after the general welfare of the women workers.

J. T. D. PYLES STORES

FIRST WOUNDED SAMMIES TREATED AT WALTER REED

Limping awkwardly about the walks and lawns of Walter Reed Hospital or lying on cots, cheerful in spite of their hurts, are a score of Sammies, who represent, as far as Washington is concerned, the first victims of German bullets.

Medical officers at the big institution are not talking much about their plans, but that that score will be augmented by at least a thousand foreign casualties during the next year is an assured fact.

Will Accommodate 3,000.
Col. W. F. Truby, commanding officer, has secured a force of workmen adequate to handle the extensive program of building, which within the past year has enlarged Walter Reed from a capacity of about 250 patients to 1,400, and which will produce perhaps the most sizable military hospital in the United States, capable of accommodating 3,000 sick and wounded.

The chief interest, of course, lies at present in the fact that our injured fighters are being transhipped here from abroad. They are expected in a constantly increasing stream, and the hospital will be ready for them, with from thirty to fifty new wards, a corps of perhaps 100 physicians and surgeons, and the best appliances in existence for operative and reconstructive work.

Difficult Cases Arriving.
The wounded from the expeditionary force mostly present difficult problems of surgery in the way of preserving the use of limbs. Some of the cases are simple. But in a few months only the most complicated and baffling wounds and hurts will be taken care of at Walter Reed. For this purpose, some of the Army Medical Corps' best specialists are being assembled, the staff comprising sixty at present.

Wonderful surgical feats will be performed. Men will be fitted with jaws, noses, and ears, and given artificial hands with which they can write and eat, and have grafted upon stripped leg and arm bones a muscular system approaching the natural. All the marvels that have been done by the French and British surgeons will be equaled here.

BOLSHEVIKI MAY ABANDON PURELY SOCIALIST PLANS

By JOSEPH SHAPLEN.
PETROGRAD, March 29 (night).—The Bolsheviks are ready to abandon a purely socialist program to insure the reconstruction of Russia—politically, industrially, and financially.

In this creative work they will call on the bourgeoisie and even the intelligentsia, but they emphasize that this must not be construed as indicating any relaxation in their dictatorship.

This was made plain today in a statement to the United Press by A. R. Lunacharsky, commissary of education.

Have Gained Strength.
"The government's policy is undergoing a change, due to the fact that the soviet's power is now sufficiently strong to permit them to undertake creative activity," Lunacharsky said.

"In order to accomplish this, we must use all the powers of the country, particularly the financial and economic.

"We are willing to use the intelligence and creative sections of the bourgeoisie, because the bourgeoisie are forced to recognize our power. Already they are joining willingly, convinced they lack the power to overthrow us. Likewise, the bourgeoisie has been forced to surrender hope of German aid against us.

Was Trotsky's Idea.
"Naturally, we are unable now to devote ourselves to a purely Socialist program. Our chief problem is raising the country's productive power. Leon Trotsky first advanced this view. The government now recognizes it and we are strong enough to carry it out.

"It may be thought that this is a decided turn toward the right (conservative), but it is necessary for the realization of our aims.

"The workmen will support us because they understand it is impossible to oppose socialism and accomplish a social revolution by confiscation of separate enterprises.

"Our new position, however, isn't an abandonment of the proletariat's dictatorship. We simply are seeking to unite all creative forces in the country necessary for the rebirth of the nation."

OFFICIALS HERE ARE RELIEVED BY PERSHING CABLE

General Pershing's dispatch to the War Department reporting an improved situation on the battle front in France on Thursday night has greatly relieved military authorities here.

Their relief was voiced by General March, chief of staff, who said: "The situation looks better. Conditions show it. General Pershing says so, and we confirm it."

While the gravity of the situation is not minimized, the general staff feels that now the allied forces will be able to hold off the enemy until such time as a successful counter attack can be launched.

The appointment of General Foch to command the allied armies thus insuring the same unity of direction that now controls the German movements has won general approval here.

In response to the Anglo-French appeal the War Department is hurrying American troops abroad. Every available ton is being used to transport our soldiers to the other side.

EIGHT PER CENT OF TAX RETURNS YET UNFILED

Eight per cent of the country's income taxpayers have yet to file their returns.

Tomorrow midnight is the "dead line"—and strict penalties, the Internal Revenue Bureau warns, will follow failure to advise the Government by that time how much you owe in the new war taxes.

ADMIRALTY TELLS HOW U. S. SHIPS CAPTURED U-BOAT

LONDON, March 31.—Details of the recent capture of a German submarine by two United States destroyers were given out last night by the British admiralty.

Two American destroyers were escorting a merchantman when they sighted a periscope. Altering their course the American warships rushed over the spot where the periscope had been sighted, dropping depth bombs. However, when they returned to see whether there was any trace of damage to the submarine the periscope reappeared, moving toward the convoy.

Instantly the destroyers gave chase at full speed, the leader firing three rounds from her forward gun. At least one hit was scored, for the submarine's bow came up above the water. Then the submarine righted itself with difficulty and sought to escape on the surface. Again the Americans fired. Members of the German crew scrambled on deck holding up their hands in surrender.

The submarine sank in short order. The survivors were rescued and made prisoners by the Americans.

SAN CARLO COMPANY GIVES "IL TROVATORE"

The San Carlo company went back to the classic Italian opera last night and presented "Il Trovatore" before an enthusiastic audience at the Belasco Theater.

Manuel Salazar in the role of Manrico was in splendid voice and his singing of the "Di Quella Pira" with its difficult ending, won prolonged applause. Joseph Royer as the Count di Luna admirably depicted the romantic fifteenth century cavalier. Pietro de Biasi, a resonant bass, appeared as Ferrando.

The best work of the evening was the Arcazona of Stella de Matte. She won encore after encore by her dramatic portrayal of the gypsy foster mother of Manrico. Luisa Darceles was Lenora, and Alice Homer, Ines her attendant.

With the exception of the first scene of act one, which was set as a forest, while the program called for the interior of a castle, the settings and costumes were excellent. Carlo Peroni conducted.

Tonight the entire company will appear in concert, presenting gems from grand opera.

NEGRO THIEVES GRAB WOMAN'S POCKETBOOK

Attacked by two daring negro thieves, who forced from her hand a pocketbook containing a rosary and a pair of eyeglasses, Miss Mary Murphy, 712 Twenty-second street northwest, is today at her home suffering from shock as the result of her thrilling experience.

Miss Murphy was walking in Pennsylvania avenue, near her home, about 11 o'clock last night, when the two snatchers rushed from the shadow of a tree, seized the purse and ran.

Hearing her screams a number of men rushed to her aid and started in pursuit of the thieves. The negroes escaped.

'DADDY' MILLER IS SAMMIES' FRIEND IN NEED AT MEIGS

Out at Camp Meigs, over a door of a Y. M. C. A. hut, hangs a sign: "Daddy Miller—He's your friend—Ask him anything."

The invitation is accepted scores of times every day. "Daddy" Miller is John Charles Miller, long known for his association with the Washington Y. M. C. A., who, since becoming a war work secretary, has established personal contact with thousands of the men who are on the "way" over, or who are already "over there."

Writes Letters For Boys.
Just one of the little services "Daddy" Miller has performed for soldier boys is that of writing letters to their mothers, wives, and friends, when they have been too fatigued or too busy to do so. Appreciation of this service, rendered sometimes fifty times a day, so that "Daddy" Miller had to get a secretary to help him, is shown in extracts from letters of mothers, fathers, and other relatives.

One Chicago mother writes: "The Y. M. C. A. surely has done and is doing wonderful work for our boys, and I hope Eddie finds as much comfort 'over there' as he did here. He wrote so often of the comforts and conveniences there."

Parents Are Grateful.
A mother and father from an Iowa town sign a letter which says: "He (their son) wrote us the good things he found there in the way of entertainment, lectures, and the comfort and homeliness of it (the Y. M. C. A. hut), and we feel that although he is away from home and among strangers, the Y. M. C. A. is still the tie that binds him to us, and too much cannot be said in praise of the great work it is accomplishing for our boys in the service."

These are random quotations from about two dozen letters "Daddy" Miller received in a single day in response to letters he had written for young men at the camp.

GERMANS STRIP DEAD BODIES.

LONDON, March 31.—An indication of the desperate straits to which the Germans are put is seen in the fact that the bodies of both German and allies on the battlefield are stripped as soon as possible by the Germans.

Gentlemen:—

We think you should know that we are particularly pleased with the results obtained from the advertising we inserted in the Times last week.

A number of people clipped the advertisement and brought it in with them the next day. We sold seven phonographs of one style besides a number in other styles and a large quantity of records.

Your readers appreciate the excellent values we are offering in musical instruments and are taking advantage of them.

It is not our custom to comment on matters of this nature but we feel that it is due your paper.

Wishing you continued success, we beg to remain,

Sincerely yours,

T. P. CULLEY & SON.
